Interviewing Hon. G. Hoadley

A deputation consisting of President Landy and Secretary Robertson of the Agricultural Soc.; Councillors Miller and Hardwick, and the Mayor, waited on the Hon. George Hoadley last week. The delegation was joined in Edmonton by Assemblyman Washburn.

The object was to obtain from the Minister of Education some information as regards the sale of the local Demonstration Farm, in view of the fact that tenders had been called for the purchase of the entire premises.

Mr. Landy called the attention of the Minister to the fact that a former delegation from Stony Plain had been given to understand that buildings and a forty-acre plot for experimental purposes would be retained, if the Department of Agriculture contemplated parting with the property. Mention was also made of the town's claim for the return of the $2000 (with interest) which townspeople had given toward the establishing here of the Farm.

Mr. Washburn spoke very favorably for the retention of the forty-acre plot, and intimated that he had made an effort to have Stony Plain included in the itinerary of the Farming Special Train which, every summer, journeys thru the farming districts of the Province.

Incidentally, Mr. Hoadley implied that the delegation was very urgent.

Bill Binders Says:

I think this is again to be a wet summer. Some fellows certainly get their water's worth when they are out for office.

not need for economy which the Government felt was necessary at the present time. The Minister explained what had been done in other districts in the way of closing up Farms and Agricultural Schools, and drew the attention of those present to the fact how fortunate Stony Plain was situated in having lecturers and demonstrators from the University Farm and Dept. of Agriculture so close at hand, and who were so willing to lend a helping hand.

In view of the fact that there is a strong probability that no offers have been received for the Farm in response to the call for tenders, it is taken for granted the 40-acre plot will be retained, regardless of what may eventually happen to the rest of the property.

Box Social Postponed.

The U. F. Committee having charge of the arrangements for the box social and dance billed for Friday evening last thought it advisable to cancel the affair, owing to the stormy weather prevailing. In order to avoid any disappointments, several of the town's sportsmen arranged to keep the dance going, and Barth's Orchestra having arrived, a very enjoyable evening was spent tripping the light fantastic.

The Traveller Returns.

Mr. Jos. D. Miller has returned from a five-weeks' tour of British Columbia. Joe visited the principal points, and was quite interested in securing data regarding business conditions in the sister Province. For a short time Joe suffered from adverse climatic conditions, but finally recovered sufficiently to return home. He has under consideration, at the present time, an offer as captain of the Hutton (B.C.) polo team.

LOCAL NEWS.

Miss Mary Miller is in Stony Plain this week.

Officer Cavenagh made a trip to Duffield yesterday.

Mr. John Shearer arrived up from Calgary on Saturday.

Mr. Lundy was a business visitor to the City on Saturday.

"Daniel McDonald, of Stony Plain," has been appointed a Commissioner for Oaths.

Mr. Andrew Alt is laid up with a broken forearm, having been kicked by a cow.

Mr. B. McColl, Edmonton, attended the big dance in Stony Plain on Friday.

Percy Gilbert made a daring attempt to bring his gas lorry to the City on Friday last, but failed.

Auctioneer Washburn conducted a very successful sale of household effects in town on Saturday last.

The local Women's Institute held a very successful Valentine party last evening, which was well attended, and a very good time was enjoyed by all present.

The game which the local hockeyists played at Duffield on the seventh inst., resulted in a tie-2 to 2. Some very good play was seen for the time played, the local team returning on the 420 train. The hockey game on the 11th, was postponed, owing to the cold weather. The next regular game is at Spruce Grove on the 18th.

As usual for an election day, several grumbles were heard on Monday about the non-appearance on the Voters' list of names which the owners thought should have been there.

Several Grade X pupils sat up in the Town Hall for several hours Monday night, waiting for the appearance of the lecturer or lecture billed by the Literary Society for that evening, but neither put in an appearance.

A special train came out on the old C. N. Ry. line last week, when a survey of the track was made. The Ry. Commission has ordered that this line be dismantled and the track torn up. It is probable that the Gillespie Elevator at old Spruce Grove will be torn down and moved to a new point.

A survey has been made on Fourth Street west for the site of the new Lutheran Church in Stony Plain. John Armbruster, Chairman of the Building Committee is calling for tenders for 200 yards of gravel, tenders to be in his hands not later than Saturday next, Feb. 17th.

Those who got up early Saturday morning to catch the 5.15 train to Edmonton had the pleasure of waiting here some 6 hours (owing to a wreck a few miles east); while those who figured on going on Monday afternoon's train to see the big hockey game, discovered the train was 8 hours late. Saturday's mail train was 70 minutes late. The train from Edmonton the same morning was 5 hours late.

Take Down The Bars!

An Ottawa despatch appearing recently in the press sets forth the disturbing fact that for the nine months ending December 31st last, immigration to Canada decreased 25 per cent, as compared with the corresponding nine months of 1921. All classes of immigration were affected, British immigrants numbering 8,000 less, United States 6,000, and other countries 6,000, a total decline of 20,000.

This is the result four years after the war was concluded under the restrictive laws imposed on the country by reason of war and after-war conditions. If certain countries in Europe wish to act as if the war is still in progress, we in Canada can hardly prevent it, but surely in our own interests we should rescind our war enactments and strive with all our might to restore, as far as possible, the normal conditions and activities of peace.

Fortunately, evidence is not lacking that whatever the leaders of organized labor unions may say or do, the masses of the Canadian people are awakening to the fact that, instead of being benefited, they are being victimized through the present virtual prohibition of immigration to Canada.

Nobody in his senses advocates the removal of all bars to immigration and a return to conditions which at one time prevailed. There must continue to be strict and absolute prohibition of the entry into Canada of the physically unfit, of the criminal class, and mentally un sound, the moral degenerates, and those professionally agitators of the communistic and "Red" groups. Canada offers no place for such persons and can only be a source of weakness and not of strength, terrible and expensive liabilities and not national assets.

But the present policy of refusing admittance to all but those who agree and are able to at once settle on the land or engage in service as domestic calls for immediate modification. Not only does the existing law practically shut out all others, but for years there has been a popular belief that Canada should continue its efforts to the obtaining of these two classes among people of the Anglo-Saxon race, and principally from the British Isles. Yet it is a well known fact that the number of available immigrants from the British Isles of the agricultural and domestic class is extremely limited. In other words, we are willing to accept what we cannot get and refuse to take good workers in other walks of life.

The trouble with immigration in Canada today is the high cost of production and marketing. There is little prospect of the selling price of agricultural products increasing to a figure sufficiently large to bear these heavy costs and yet leave a reasonable margin of profit to the farmer. Betterment can only be effected through a reduction in production and marketing costs. How is such betterment to be brought about so long as the entire labor market is kept as a close preserve for organized labor, and the immigration policy is dictated by and framed to suit the labor leaders?

Railway and other transportation charges cannot be materially reduced so long as our public service companies are compelled to grant unreasonably short hours, pay unreasonably high wages, employ several men to do the work of which one is capable, and are largely precluded from recruiting new and efficient employees through the engagement of apprentices? How can the costs of implements, clothing, building materials of all kinds, and other prime necessities of the farmer be lowered when the supply of common laborers so essential to the carrying on of any and all industry is completely shut off?

At the recent annual convention of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association, some home truths were stated by G. F. Chipman, editor of the Grain Growers' Guide, in regard to this subject. He urged selective immigration as necessary, but immigration selected to meet all the needs of Canada. Present economic conditions, Mr. Chipman pointed out, were the result of the boom which prevailed prior to the war, followed by the war with its fictitious prosperity. During this period of inflation we had created a plant in the shape of railways, industries, public buildings and services, all on borrowed money, capable of taking care of a much larger population than Western Canada possessed.

The burden is too great for the present small population. The created plant cannot be worked to full capacity, and that desirable and necessary common labor can only be brought about through increase in population, and that increase must be obtained through immigration.

Common labor is necessary if skilled labor is to be provided with remunerative and steady employment. Population is essential if there is to be a sufficiently large buying power to consume the products of labor. Yet present immigration laws have but one effect upon the supply of common labor—depletes it. The source of common labor largely has been immigration of old or almost entirely withheld from the masses. These men and women came to Canada in the past glad to work, able to work and grateful for the opportunity. Canada absorbed them in the past and was prosperous. Their immigration now would assist in bringing about a revival of business. Why, then, close the door to them?

Vancouver Grain Movement

Fifteen million bushels of grain is now the estimate for the Vancouver grain movement for the season 1922-23. To date Europe has taken 4,183,000 bushels; with 4,206,155 bushels yet to load. The Orient has taken 433,000 bushels, with 1,396,003 bushels yet to be despatched.

Men, Money and Management

Lack of Wise Management Invariably Means Failure

In a recent address before thousands of railway employees, President C. H. Markham, of the Illinois Central Railroad, broke away from the stereotyped phrase of "capital and labor" and referred to this phase of the industrial world as "Men and money partners in the transportation business." The Financial Post says this is a great improvement over the usual form of expression and helps us to do some clear thinking on this subject.

Wage earners and the money invested in any enterprise are, indeed, partners in that business, but, as Commercial West points out, there is a third element which is necessary to insure success and that is, management. Lack of wise management means failure, even though plenty of money is available and workers most efficient. The manager may come from the so-called capitalist class, or he may work up from the ranks of the wage earner, and the latter course is much more common than the other. The manager, strictly speaking, is neither laborer nor capitalist. His strength is neither in his hands nor in his bank roll, but rather in his mental efficiency.

Time and patience will enable a person to overcome almost any obstacle.

Ontario Farmers Severely Criticize Motion Picture Shows

Provincial fair associations are discussing general improvements of rural fairs and the elimination of undesirable features in Ontario. More than a score of delegates from Perth, Huron and Middlesex counties, representing 15 of the leading agricultural societies of Ontario, attended District No. 8 meeting and spoke in this strain. Motion pictures have come in for strong criticism, delegates voicing the opinion that movies had had a greater adverse effect on children than many of the games of chance and skill which make the rounds of the Ontario fairs. A proposal was made the association to request Hon. Peter Smith, Provincial Treasurer, to place a heavier tax on movies.

Safety Of The World Depends On Amity Of The English-Speaking Peoples

Sir Auckland Geddes, in a recent speech at Washington, very pertinently stressed the urgent need for continued co-operation and friendship between Great Britain and the United States. Sir George Foster, ex-Secretary of State Colby, Dr. Charles A. Eaton and others equally well-known, have taken up an analogous chorus, pronouncing definite opinions that the safety of the world and civilization generally depends upon the whole-hearted amity of the English-speaking peoples. Rome was the greatest empire of the ancient world. The man who did most to make Rome was Octavian, nephew of Julius Caesar—famous throughout history. Augustus was possessed of supreme wisdom and knew when aggression became synonymous with weakness, and that power resides in consolidation; in like manner the communion of Britain and the United States should tend to world strength. Sir Auckland Geddes has done yeoman service towards the strengthening of Anglo-American friendship since he went to Washington, and the United States people have recognized in him a representative with a combination of qualities which they have not failed to appreciate. Few men have proven themselves so well able to discharge the all-important position of ambassador at Washington—if we except Lord Bryce, Geddes has again given proof of an intimacy of understanding of American conditions and American ideals in his latest utterances. Both the United States and British Governments are fortunate in their diplomats, from the all-important aspect by which ambassadors are usually judged.

All reputable citizens in the United States, Canada and Great Britain have consistently advocated the continuation of Anglo-American accord. Knowledge of each other and the manners and customs of the peoples of the two great English-speaking countries is solid foundation for that friendship and amity which we are all seeking to increase and fortify. A mere sentiment is not enough; it is essential that both move towards fuller comprehension, so that the bonds of real sympathy and substantial friendship may be drawn closer between two nations which most people hope and believe are destined to work as peaceful and potent collaborators in the advancement of the world's highest interests. It is a matter of considerable regret to the peoples of Britain and the United States that the measures of success achieved in the great war, invaluable as it was for the world, is less great than had been hoped. The German glorification war for its own sake was a thing incomprehensible and revolting to the Anglo-Saxon public mind. The friendship of the United States is a possession to be prized, the more so because it is not lightly given, and therefore a great obligation of indebtedness is laid upon the peoples of the two countries for the excellent work performed for them through the Embassies. Britain and the United States have far beyond other nations an enlarged vision of mutualities of interest in world welfare, their history, geography and political evolution being conducive to the widening of their horizon; to the elevation of the general universal above the narrow and local.

It is this attitude, this enlightened view, that is the great asset of the two peoples, although its effectiveness depends upon the permanence of friendly relationships. The implication is that by their combined power they can enforce peace upon the world. We prefer to place this assumption on a sounder basis than that of force. The two great branches of English-speaking people have it in their power once they are in agreement to set up a standard of justice and fair play in international relations that no nation may disregard. Community of language, culture and ideals make for mutual respect and understanding. A hundred years of peace—unbroken even by serious differences that have arisen from time to time—give reason to hope that all disputes in future will yield to negotiation and compromise. The story of the relations between Canada and the United States is written so that all "who run may read." In our unfurled frontiers and in the peace, amity and mutual respect which has characterized all our relationships for more than a century, Canada understands both Britain and the United States, and it is clear that both countries have an interest in the welfare of this Dominion of an extremely vital character. The backbone of Anglo-American friendship and harmony is not an alliance, nor a conspiracy, nor a club with which to coerce, but an understanding that will set up the best of our joint traditions and ideals as the standard to be followed in solving their problems. If the Anglo-American entente can, therefore, be pursued to a successful issue, no nation will challenge it, and certainly no nation need fear it. A habit of mind cherished for a century is not to be thrown off at short notice. Nothing should be allowed to impair the new warmth of friendly relations between the two great sections of English-speaking mankind.—The Montreal Gazette.

Destruction Of The Elder Duck

Noticeable Decrease Reported From the Maritime Provinces
A considerable decrease in the number of Elder ducks, one of the most valuable of the water fowl protected under the Migratory Birds Convention Act, is reported this season by the Chief Migratory Bird Officer for the Maritime Provinces. The scarcity is more noticeable along the sea coast of Nova Scotia, one of the principal lanes in the emigration of water fowl, this official states in a recent report to the Commissioner of the Canadian National Parks. Similarly, in Massachusetts the Director of the division of ornithology of the state Department of Agriculture in his "Notes for Observers," of November 10 remarked that Elder, as well as other ducks and geese, were appearing in Massachusetts water with few if any young, testifying to a disastrous nesting season.

A New Plan To Assist The Western Agriculturist In Securing Farm Help

Mules Shipped to India

Will Be Used By Mountain Artillery Of British Army

Rich language will yield to fancy food for mules on board the deluxe mule boat, The Manhattan, which left New York for Karachi on the west coast of India. She carried 363 Nebraska and Missouri army mules. They are to have new jobs with the mountain artillery of the British army in India.

The mules were lodged in luxurious quarters on the Manhattan, which had been especially quartered and refitted for the purpose by Colonel J. Anderson, representing the Indian Government.

The ship's hold was filled with tons of carrots.

The problem of farm help which, year after year, in connection with the cultivation and harvesting of Western Canada's increasing crops, is a matter of such vital importance to the farmers, is to be aided by a new plan now proposed by the Canadian Pacific Railway, which has completed arrangements to utilize its widespread organization to provide such help from a number of overseas countries.

Briefly this plan is to invite farmers, through placing in their hands "Application for Help" forms, to set forth their requirements as to class and nationality of help required, when desired, class of work desired for, wages offered and other similar, necessary details. These forms are now in the hands of all company station agents and may be had on request.

The Governments of Great Britain, Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Norway and Switzerland have expressed themselves as desirous of settling part of their surplus populations in Canada, and, realizing that this move is to their own and their nations' best interests, have indicated their readiness to aid their migration.

Branch offices of the Canadian Pacific already penetrate these countries, where experienced and practical men, who have farmed in, and are familiar with, Western Canadian farming conditions will deal directly with the many applicants they are now in touch with. They are in a position to judge of the suitability of the prospective helper—moral, mental and physical qualifications—and with a knowledge of the farmers' wants before them, bring the help to the farmer at the proper time and with a clear understanding of the obligations and requirements of each.

The farmer, therefore, will be able to secure competent hired help—male and female—from any of these countries, the idea being that in the majority of cases most farmers will prefer to hire one of their own countrymen; nor will the farmer be involved in the slightest outlay towards his prospective helper's travelling expenses, the help being delivered to him at his nearest railway station on or about the date required.

The benefits of this new project are calculated to be of a two-fold character, furnishing the agriculturists of Western Canada with the kind and nationality of farm help required and giving entrance to the Dominion of a number of immigrants of the highest type and most valuable qualities.

In the wish to induce movements of desirable people to Canada and provide work for them the moment they arrive, this scheme should develop an immigration which is of particular value as being carefully selected and directed. Further, it will be carried on without expense to the Dominion, while Canada will have the assurance of the settlement of these people where it needs them most.

In other words, the tide will assimilate as it arrives with the prospect that, with a certain amount of experience as hired help on Western Canadian farms, these people will eventually take farms for themselves and in a short time be added to Canada's producing agriculturists.

Shipbuilding in Germany

Output Greater in Year 1922 than Before the war

From the figures for the shipbuilding output in 1922 now available, it appears Germany has beaten all her previous records. Her output for 1922 was 625,000 tons, as compared with 500,000 tons in 1921, 440,000 tons in 1920, and 465,000 tons in 1913.

The German shipbuilding industry has not suffered from the general depression, and, owing to the low cost of production, and the light taxation in Germany, has become a most formidable competitor to the British and United States industries. Indeed ships for British owners are now being built in German yards because of the lower cost there.

The British output was 1,000,000 tons. The United States has now fallen below Germany in tonnage produced.

Winter Sports in Canada

Montreal's Fun Festival

Among the countries of the world Canada has long been without a peer as a summer resort. Today it challenges the hitherto undisputed supremacy of Switzerland in the realm of winter sports. Who has not heard or read of St. Moritz, prince of the Swiss people and for long years the winter time Mecca of Europe? Canada has a score or more of places where all that St. Moritz can offer in the way of winter sports is not only duplicated but surpassed. The fans of these are spreading beyond the confines of this continent to lands across the seas. No longer is the Dominion pictured as a land which hibernates through a long and trying winter period. The truth regarding the invigorating and exhilarating winter climate of this country, with its joy giving and health imparting sports, is as great an advertisement for Canada as the enthusiastic testimonials of the glories of its summer and early fall.

Quebec, the ancient and picturesque, Ottawa a capital to be proud of, and a host of other cities and towns might be named as worthy claimants the attention of those who delight in the season's sports. But the Canadian winter of 1923 belongs, for many reasons, to the old, substantial and progressive city of Montreal. If that municipality, in which the past and the present, the old and the new so harmoniously blend and combine, had nothing else to point to but Mount Royal it would still have much to boast of. But in addition to the famed toboggan slide of that same beautiful height, there are many attractions to charm and delight every visitor.

It would indeed be almost impossible to detail in a single article the variety of the winter sports and recreations that Montreal will afford throughout the balance of this month and all of February. The Winter Sports Committee, selected by the citizens, is responsible for the arrangements which hold particular appeal to all interested in skating, skiing, curling, snowshoeing, hockey, ice-yachting, tobogganing and the like. Every Saturday in the period named, special ski contests and exhibitions are held at the Montreal Ski Club, while every other winter sport has its special place on the programme. It is doubtful if there has ever been anywhere such a remarkable programme for winter sports, varied as it is by masquerades, balls and other social functions, and torchlight parades amid the most striking natural surroundings. There is the glamour of romance over all, but there is also behind it the spirit of real Canadianism that knows how to blend its play and recreation with its work and its belief in the land that it loves.

Montreal has spared no effort to show that Canada as a winter resort need take second place to none. Even now the success of its undertaking is assured. One of the greatest attractions to that success is the Canadian National Railway, which sees in such plans and programmes an opportunity not only of developing business, but of spreading knowledge of Canada beyond its own boundaries as well as among Canadians themselves.

"That's a horse of another color," Rexhill appeared aroused, at last. "I remember the old fellow. He must be nearly ready to break bone and by this time anyhow. Saddle it on him. If you can, Wade's devoted to him. He'd do as much for Santry as for himself, maybe more."

"I've heard about that kind of devotion," the agent sneered, "but I've seen a sample of it."

"Well, you may before long. Your first proposition's no good anyway. Wade simply further antagonize Rexhill's friends. It's quite possible, though, that Santry might have been mixed up in such a brawl. Get him arrested, and then we'll let Wade know, gradually, that influence is at his command, for a price. I've no objection to that—none at all. By Heaven, we've got to do something."

"We'll do it all right. I'll have a warrant sworn out."

"Meanwhile, Race, go easy with those sheep. Wade was telling me about them, and as a matter of fact of strategy, I had to pretend that I would help him. Move them across the divide until we see what comes of this Santry affair."

"All right," Moran arose. "The sheep don't count much now anyway."

"I don't mind saying, Race," Senator Rexhill observed, "a trifle pompous, but that you've done pretty well so far. If you stick to it, you'll not find me ungrateful when the battle is over. You'll be entitled to your reward."

Moran hesitated, seeming to summon courage to say something.

"Maybe you've guessed the reward I'll ask, Senator," he said slowly. "There are some things that mean more to a man than mere money, I'm thinking of Miss Helen."

Rexhill found it difficult in placing his gaze so that it would appear to naturally fall elsewhere than on Moran. He was troubled by a sense of shame that he could not deal squarely with this aspirant for his daughter's hand. He had been sincere in saying that he would never barter her to further his own interests, but so much had he been here that until the issue really arose he feared to pass upon it. He felt himself stultified in his truth.

"I haven't spoken to her, Senator, because the time has not come, and just now she's too much occupied elsewhere, perhaps. But all my hopes are fixed on her, and when the time does come, I trust you'll not oppose them."

MOTHER OF LARGE FAMILY

Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to Other Mothers

Hemford, N. S.—"I am the mother of four children and I was so weak after my last baby came that I could not do my work and suffered for months until a friend induced me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Since taking the Vegetable Compound my weakness has left me and the pain in my back has gone. I tell all my friends who are troubled with female weakness take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for I think it is the best medicine ever sold. You may advertise my letter."—Mrs. GEORGE L. CHOWEN, Hemford, N. S.

My First Child
Glen Allen, Alabama.—"I have been greatly benefited by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for bearing-down feelings and pains. I was troubled in this way for nearly four years following the birth of my first child, and at times could hardly stand on my feet. A neighbor recommended the Vegetable Compound to me after I had taken doctor's medicines without much benefit. It has relieved my pains and given me strength. I recommend it and give you permission to use my testimonial letter."—Mrs. J. E. EY, Glen Allen, Alabama.

Rexhill coughed to hide what his face might otherwise have shown. "Well, Race," he said, with a choking sensation that was new to him. "You know what I think of you. As for the rest, well, that will depend entirely upon Helen."

CHAPTER VI.

Murder

"How do you think you'd like to live in Crawling Water?"

Wade looked whimsically at Helen, as she picked her way with the grace of a kitten through the dust of the main street. Carefully though she walked, her shoes and the bottom of her skirt were covered with dust, and gray with it.

"I shouldn't like it," she said, with a little mouse. "I don't see why you stay here. You aren't going to anywhere, are you?"

"I reckon it's likely."

"Not-for always?" She had stopped and was looking up into his face with delicious dismay. "That would be awful."

"Most of my friends, and all of my business interests are here. Besides, I have a kind of pride in growing up with this country. Back in the East, things have been settled for so long that a man's only a cog in a machine. Out here, a fellow has a sense of ownership even in the hills. I think I like it because he gets closer to the soil, until he comes to love it and to be almost a part of it."

"Oh, dear," exclaimed the girl. That sounds fine, but the reality isn't up to anticipation of it."

Wade laughed in his hearty way. "That's only because you haven't been here long enough, Helen."

"There are things that are splendid about the West," she generously admitted. "Its vastness, its wide spaces, and especially its men. I'm sure that's why I first liked you. For another, because you were different—unlike the general run of young men in the East."

"Oh, yes, there are lots of good men East, too."

"Not so very many. At least, I have seen a very few who were at all worth while. There's one, Maxwell Frayne, who has been plaguing me for months, but I don't care for him much."

"She was closely watching him as she spoke, and she smiled when he started."

"You'll better not."

"But if I really thought you meant to stay here all the time, I'm sure I'd love him devotedly. Now—she eyed him mischievously—"I think this would be a nice place to call home don't you know, just for fun, and that spend most of the time in New York and London. See the man staring at me!"

"How, starting at you?"

Wade turned and looked in the direction she indicated, surprised at the suggestion that she was being annoyed in Crawling Water, where chivalry to women ran high.

"Oh, he didn't mean anything, I assure you."

"They're friends of mine, and curious, perhaps," she referred to a group of cattle men across the street who did seem to be staring and talking with some indecision in their attitude. "I wonder if anything can have happened? Oh, I guess not. Well, what would I do in London?"

"I didn't say anything about you being in London, did I?"

"Well, it's safe to say that where you were, I'd want to be, at any rate. Haven't I made two trips to Chicago for no real reason except to see you?" he denied, fast slipping into the thrall of her fascination.

She viewed him through half-closed eyes, knowing that the pose has all ways allured him.

"Don't you think you'd be kept busy looking after me?" she playfully asked. "Seriously, I hate an idle man, but I don't know what you'd find to do here. What is it, Helen? You'd have to have investments that would take you over every year or two."

"Now you're trying to make a city man of me," he said, half in jest. "Be sides," a dogged note crept into his voice—"I'd have the right to expect something of you, wouldn't I?"

"Not the right, but the privilege," she answered softly.

"This is where the Purnells live."

He turned her into the pathway to the door. "This is what I'd like, a neat little home like this, with a couple of kiddies and some dogs. Then I could spend my out-door time at the ranch."

Before Helen could reply to this, Mrs. Purnell appeared on the threshold to welcome them, but to Wade's surprise, she told them that Dorothy was not there.

"Oh, I'm so sorry," said Helen, with intense relief.

"I don't know where she went either," the mother went on. "She was out for a few minutes soon after you left, Gordon. Then she came back and called out something to me, but I didn't catch what she said."

Before she could say more, however, she knew what she was doing she had nudged her pony and ridden off. "Be come right in. I don't think she'll be gone long."

He entered, and Helen, graciously choosing to overlook the fact that this was evidently Wade's second visit there within a very short time, sought to impress him with her tactfulness to Mrs. Purnell. She would have been amazed could she have guessed that she was actually arousing him to her resentment. He felt somehow that she was poisoning her husband, who was a woman of refinement, even if she lacked the artfulness of manner that Helen affected. He was sincerely glad when the visit came to an end.

"You must come again," said Mrs. Purnell, in a spirit of friendliness.

However, I applied Zam-Buk to stop the pain and bleeding and it gave the child such relief that I continued the treatment. Using nothing but Zam-Buk, I dressed the finger each day, and the wound healed perfectly."

"So glad to have met you," Helen replied. "I hope to have the pleasure of meeting your daughter long before we leave Crawling Water."

"They're splendid women, both of them," Wade remarked, as they walked back toward the centre of the town.

"Oh, yes," Helen agreed, without much spirit. "Nice, comfortable home people, I suppose."

"Best kind in the world."

"Gordon!" Helen laughed good-naturedly, facing him as she walked.

"What in the world has been the matter with you today? We usually get on so well together, and today, if I do say it, once again my unwillingness to quarrel has kept us from it."

"Surely, I haven't."

"No, maybe not. I imagined it. But Crawling Water is a lot more real than London, to my way of thinking."

"You haven't been to London."

"I'm not likely to go, either," he retorted.

Her red lips curled in a way that seemed to indicate that she thought he would go. Already, she was planning to get him out of Crawling Water and beyond the influence of Dorothy Purnell.

As they turned into the main street again, a man leaving a group near the livery stable, and mounting a horse, rode toward them.

"I wonder what's up now?" Wade muttered, recognizing the horseman as one of the Townsbridge outfit.

"Mr. Wade. Just a minute."

With the grace of a Centaur, the rider swung his mount in beside them and doffed his hat. "Two of Jensen's herders have been shot. I thought you ought to know about it."

"What?" The ranch owner's jaw dropped at the news.

"It's true, sir. Word just came in."

"Thanks, Barker." Wade pulled himself together, as the restless pony raced back to the barn. "I must go, Helen," he went on, turning to the girl at his side. "There's been fighting—murder, perhaps—out near the ranch. Santry will need me."

He was uneasy lest the old playman should have been concerned in the shooting.

"You'll take me to the hotel?"

"Of course, yes. Would you mind walking a little faster?" They quickened their pace. "I'm sorry, Helen; but I must hurry to the ranch."

Even at that moment he could not but reflect that there would have been no need to take Dorothy home. Somehow, the ways of the East seemed to fit itself and less aptly into the life of Crawling Water.

On his way to the livery stable after his horse, Wade did some rapid thinking. Santry might have been concerned in the shooting, but his employment thought not. The old fellow had promised to stay at home, and his word was as good as another man's bond. It was too bad, certainly, that the thing should have happened just when Senator Rexhill's promise had seemed in a fair way to settle this controversy. Now, the whole thing was more upset than ever, for Moran and Rexhill could hardly be blamed if they backed up their own men, especially if the herders had been blameless, as was probably the case. Yet if the Senator did this, Wade knew that a bloody little war would be the outcome.

"Where's Townsbridge, Barker?" he asked of the cowpuncher, whom he found waiting at the stable.

"At the ranch, I think."

French Are Taking Strong Measures In Dealing With Germans

Dusseldorf.—The death penalty will be inflicted on Germans caught in the act of tampering with railway equipment, signal boxes or taking part in other acts of sabotage endangering the lives of travellers, the French authorities announce.

Sentries have been ordered to fire to kill upon any person approaching railway crossings, tower houses or stations and refusing to halt after the customary challenge.

The French say that these measures are necessary owing to increasing destructiveness on the part of the Germans.

General Depicq explained that the military law provides capital punishment for such offences and declared that if the Germans, in obeying the orders of "the committee for defence and reprisals in the Ruhr," persist in these outrages, no mercy will be shown.

Agents of the committee are circulating freely in the Ruhr, especially from Elberfeld, which is less than two miles from the extreme advance posts of the French occupation at Bonn.

Troops completely encircle Elberfeld, the line running from Dornap to Volvinkle, thence southeast to Lennep, then to Dornberg to the north and again west to Wulfrath. People in the newly occupied area are in a sulky mood, refusing to halt the street cars, or salute occupation officers. They make every attempt to render the life of the troops unbearable. This women folk have been threatened by the male element with whom heads if seen speaking with French officers and soldiers.

French control of the railroads around Elberfeld prevents the export of any coal to Southern Germany. The Germans have not attempted to pass coal through the cordon, but tried to slip by with a 30-car train of benzol which was confiscated.

HEART PALPITATED And Was Short Of Breath

Through one cause or another a large majority of people are troubled, more or less, with some form of heart trouble.

Many people may be unaware of having anything wrong with their heart till some little excitement, overwork of worry starts it to palpitate and throb, skip beats, beat fast for a time and then slow as to seem almost to stop, then it causes great anxiety and alarm.

To all such sufferers
MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS will give prompt and permanent relief. Mrs. Alice Bishop, 15 Hawthorne Ave., Hamilton, Ont., writes: "I take pleasure in recommending Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills to all persons troubled as I have been."

Advocates Measures To Aid the Farmers

Progressive Member for Swift Current Offers Some Criticism

Ottawa.—A. J. Lewis (Progressive, Swift Current), in debate in the Senate, referring to immigration, said that in the last census decade the natural increase over deaths in spite of war and influenza, was approximately 1,000,000. In addition there were 2,000,000 immigrants in the same period.

The country lost 2,000,000 people—just as many as came in. What was the use of rearing a family in Canada and trying to keep abreast of the country's natural development if, at the same time, one got no further ahead.

In order to maintain the price of wheat and to make it possible for the farmer to make a living, he advocated measures to preserve the identity of Canadian wheat in foreign markets and he favored the completion of the Hudson Bay Railway to provide another outlet.

He did not agree with the eulogies which had been uttered on the Government's course in the Near East. He condemned the practice by which postage stamps were used in the payment of stamp taxes. A special stamp should be used for that purpose so that the people would know that their money was going to reduce the burden of the debt and not to increase the income of the Post Office Department.

The House adjourned.

To Stop Liquor Export

Manitoba Government Considers Measure to Prevent Export From Province

Winnipeg.—The Manitoba Government is considering the passing of an order-in-council requesting the Dominion Government to apply the Canada Temperance Act to Manitoba as it is applied to Saskatchewan. In order to prevent the exportation of liquor from this province.

The Government of Saskatchewan asked the federal authorities last year to put an end to the existence of liquor export warehouses in that province, and the Dominion Government, acting under the Canada Temperance Act, passed an order-in-council prohibiting the export of liquor from Saskatchewan, as from November 15, Saskatchewan is the only "dry" province which has asked the prohibition of liquor exports.

It is contended that, should the province vote, "wet" at the coming referendum, Manitoba, being no longer a "dry" province, the export warehouses could be established, as in British Columbia, where the Government failed in the courts to maintain a monopoly of liquor import and export.

Allies Have Refused To Withdraw Ships From Eastern Waters

London.—After conversations between the British and French Governments it was agreed, in terms proposed by the French, to reject the Turkish demand that the Allied warships leave Smyrna.

The British and French have sent a reply to Ankara to that effect and warning the Ankara Government that the Anglo-French warships have been instructed to defend themselves if attacked.

Constantinople.—It is understood that the Allies have not only refused to withdraw their ships from Smyrna, but that the British have sent heavy ships to Smyrna from Constantinople, the Dardanelles and Malta.

The French consul at Smyrna reports the French colony there as greatly disturbed by the menacing turn of the situation and has requested authority to embark all French subjects aboard the French steamship Pierre Loti, and the French cruiser now at Smyrna.

The Turkish newspapers have published an order issued by the military commander of Constantinople calling on all officers on both the active and retired lists, to present themselves for immediate registration.

The One Great Bank.

In the midst of innumerable other troubles, the Provincial Government is now
faced with a strong agitation
from organized Farmer ranks
for the establishment of a Provincial Bank under Government guarantee, says the Edmonton Bulletin.

This agitation has reached such proportions in U. F. A.
forces in the Legislature that the demand for legislation
upon which to found the proposed bank cannot be ignored by the Cabinet; altho it is well known that Premier Greenfield, Attorney General
Brownlee and other Ministers are in no way sympathetic to the establishment of such a bank and are fearful of the consequence if such steps were taken just at this critical time in the financial history of the Province.

Geo. Devington, of Winterburn, a member of the U. F. A.
Central Executive, a well known authority on banking and an advocate of banking along the lines of the Australian Commonwealth Bank, is the recognised head of the movement for the Provincial Bank, and has recently had conferences with many U. F.
members of the House regarding this important question.

At the big Calgary U. F. A.
Convention last month, Mr.
Devington drew applause
when he referred to the fact that the demand for the Provincial Bank had been before the Alberta Government on two previous occasions, and that further refusal to take action on the matter might have unpleasant results for the Government.

Health Inspector's Report.

A communication was received last week by Secretary
Lundy from the Provincial Department of Health, inclosing the report of Mr. J.
Williams, Officer of Health,
who recently gave the town
an inspection.

The Inspector gives the general conditions, as found,
to be very good.

Exception was taken to a cave on upper Main street, where boxes of fruit are said to have been stored in the guest chambers. This has been remedied.

The new slaughter house
west of town came in for very favorable comment, as all waste matter was receiving immediate attention.

The Inspector was pleased to report that the recommendations re improved sanitary conditions at the local school had been satisfactorily carried out.

The Inspector also noted that, in public places, where the floors are decorated with carpeting, that these latter should be used more often and cleaned daily.

Taken all in all, the Inspector gives the town practically a clean bill of health;
and the local Board of Health is to be congratulated on the findings of the Inspector.

THE HUMAN FACTORY

Its Motive Power is Rich, Red Blood

The human body is the best factory in the world. There is no eight-hour day, no slack season, no holidays,
no cessation of its labor at any time.
Day and night work is carried on in the workshop of your body and it never ceases until the engine—your heart—stops forever.

The factory of your body has its motive power without which you will cease at once. That power is rich, red, healthy blood, which keeps your whole system efficient and which drives away all disease that may attack it. Often, however, the blood begins to fail and becomes thin and poor. It becomes loaded with waste and charged with poisons. Then it is that your body's workshop goes wrong; your physical machinery becomes disorganized, and you fall ill.
You become anaemic, perhaps, the nerves break down, or you begin to suffer from indigestion, neuritis, general debility, with pains in the back, head or side. In this condition of bloodlessness "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills" are just what you need. Their one mission is to make rich, red blood which brings health and energy to every part of the body. Mr. Raymond Webster, Wetland, Ont., tells what these pills did for him as follows:—"My blood was thin and watery, and I was in a badly run-down condition. Pimples broke out on my body which caused me much discomfort. I would catch cold easily, which aggravated my condition. My brother advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after taking about eight boxes I felt that I was again a well man. I have since recommended the pills with good results to others."
You can get these pills through any medicine dealer, or mail at $2.00 a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Gun Men

Law Enforcement the Only Real
Protection to the Citizen

Sir Basil Thomson, former Chief of Scotland Yard, recently in Chicago, said what most Americans knew to be true. An English crook does not work with a gun. If he is caught with it he goes in for life. He stays in for life. For this reason the English citizen keeps his life when assaulted by a crook. The English are called a law-abiding people. They make their laws stick against criminals. That would seem to be the easiest possible way to be law abiding.
It does not cost the peaceful citizen anything and it adds much to the pleasure, profit and length of life.
Americans evidently prefer that there should be no prohibition of the manufacture of the one-hand gun, no real penalty for the carrying of it, and a doubtful penalty for the use of it. The majority of Americans are as law-abiding as the majority of Englishmen,
but they are not law-enforcing.—Chicago Tribune.

Credit and Exchange

In spite of all the mad outbreaks of the Government during the last few years we have to our credit the fact that we were the first country to balance our budget, the first to reduce taxation, the first to meet an external debt and the first to suggest scaling down the arms still, owing to us.
There is a point where the exchange reflects a country's credit beyond anything else, and our financial soundness, judged by such evidence as those we have suggested, is becoming more clear to the world.—Manchester Guardian.

It Bids Pain Begone.—When neuralgia ticks the nerves or lumbago cripples

Well rubbed in it will still the pain and produce a sensation of ease and in it.

Fertile Land in The Pas

Reclamation of Many Acres of Land in the Carrot River Valley

Three survey parties connected with the Canadian Branch of the Carrot River valley, returned from the Carrot River valley triangle, adjacent to The Pas.
Three years have now been spent obtaining information on the reclamation of some eight hundred thousand acres of land in the Carrot River valley, which is reported by these engineers to be the richest and most fertile soil known in Western Canada. It is understood that further reconnaissance survey work will be proceeded with this summer in the vicinity of the Demashine rapids on the Saskatchewan River, at the head of Lake Winnipeg. Here, it is claimed by experts, locks will be so constructed as to regulate the entire flooded area
tributary to the Saskatchewan River as far west as Prince Albert. The drop the water would have at these rapids is about 25 feet which is said to be ample for the successful drainage of the whole Carrot River valley triangle.

Interesting British Youth in Canada

Full Summer Course at Agricultural Schools in Alberta

A direct stimulus to British-Canadian immigration, particularly in turning the minds of England's youth, agriculturally inclined, towards farming opportunity in Canada, is contained in the announcement that Mr. E. W.
Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, is awarding a full summer course at the agricultural schools of Alberta to the four prize winners of the Young Farmers' Clubs of Great Britain. Few schemes, so far devised with an encouragement of desirable immigration in view, are calculated to have the permanent and lasting effect of this one, with the best and most accurate knowledge of farming conditions in the Canadian West implanted by Canada's foremost agricultural experts in youthful minds cultivated to assimilate it, and capable of disseminating their impressions
among the youth of England.

The four selected boys will arrive in Canada early enough to commence their summer course at the Alberta agricultural schools in May. They will be given as thorough and comprehensive an impression of Western Canadian agricultural conditions as possible in the time, visiting different areas and such agricultural fairs and exhibitions as offer. They will return to England in the fall, where arrangements have been made for them to write up their experiences in the agricultural press of the British Isles.

The benefits which may follow in the wake of this scheme are manifold.
No phase of Canadian immigration has in the past, produced such excellent results as that of young boys from England who have grown up with the land and rapidly absorbed its ideas and ideals. Could the settlement be induced of those with expert agricultural knowledge and experience in their formative years, a tide of very valuable colonists might set in. For the main part agricultural students in the British Isles are farmers' sons, and the dissemination of authentic information on Western Canada conditions in a class Canada has always considered most eminently desirable as settlers, cannot but be productive of satisfactory results.

cavate the worm evil that bears so heav-

cause many fatalities. They are an acceptable medicine to children and can be fully relied upon to clear the structive parasites and restore the inflamed and painful surfaces to healthfulness. They are an excellent remedy for these evils.

Source of Health Says Calgary
Woman

That Tanlac is the ideal strength and body builder for elderly people has been conclusively proved by the statements of those who have tested its remarkable merits. Further evidence of this fact is furnished by the experience of Mrs. C. J. Harris, 226 15th Ave., East, Calgary, Alberta, who is now seventy-three years of age.

"Tanlac has been my standby now
for three or four years," says Mrs.
Harris. "Before I knew about it I had been losing weight and feeling all run-down for a long time. My nerves were bad, I couldn't sleep and just seemed to be on a general decline. My strength and energy nearly all left me and some days I could hardly get around at all.

"It was astonishing how quickly Tanlac had me feeling right again. I began to pick right up and finished my fourth bottle feeling fine. Now whenever I begin to feel the least bit run-down I just get a bottle of Tanlac and soon I am all right again."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 25-million bottles sold.
